Peter Sellers In Zany Hit "Where Does It Hurt"

Peter Sellers wants to be your doctor in WHERE DOES IT HURT? an hilarious spoof about doctors, hospitals and patients opening _____ at the _____ Theatre.

Sellers, in another of his memorable characterizations, plays Albert T. Hopfnagel, an outrageously unscrupulous hospital administrator. Hopfnagel is one of the outstanding roles created by Sellers who has become an international screen favorite through his brilliant performances in many hits including his famous Inspector Clouseau in THE PINK PANTHER series.

Jo Ann Pflug stars as Alice, "the nurse" in the fast-paced fun and Rick Lenz plays patient Hammond who dropped in for an X-ray and ended up in a long term situation. As the patient's bills run up at an incredible pace, his pleas go unnoticed by Hopfnagel and his profit-oriented staff.

WHERE DOES IT HURT? is a Josef ShafTEL Production, presented by Hemdale. It was directed by Rod Amateau who also co-authored the screenplay with Budd Robinson and co-produced with Bill Schwartz. Josef ShafTEL was the executive producer and the music was written by Keith Allison. It is a Cinerama re-release through American International Pictures.
